FOURTEENTH YEAR

Constance Collier At Lyric Wednesday And Thursday

A life as tranquil as a midsummer day; a palatial mansion with every luxury that a millionaire husband could lavish upon her was Marcia's lot. Untroubled by any care and surrounded by fashionable friends she entertained upon an elaborate scale.

Gray meanwhile was passing thru very troubled waters financially. For Gray was the president of a big trust company and ruin and disgrace loomed ahead.

The crash came as Marcia gave a big dinner. Gray kept late, arrived as the guests having heard the rumor were hurriedly departing. The friends of prosperity were fleeing the shadow of disgrace. Gray's arrest followed. In this hour of great need his wife was the only one who rallied to his aid. The wife seemingly deserted by all with home and fortune lost, found that her former sweetheart, the bachelor lawyer Orlando Castle would gladly give aid. Castle went Gray's bond and agreed to defend him, gratis.

Meanwhile the prison confinement wrought a change in Gray and he came forth filled with bitterness and a growing suspicion of his wife and Castle. He determined to flee the country and bought tickets for Marcia and himself. In a violent scene he accused the innocent Castle and so offended Marcia that she refused to accompany him. Scornfully he departed alone.

Stepping off a small ferry that night he inquired his way from a loiterer on the wharf. The drunken loafer was Crane, a ruined depositor of the wrecked trust company. Slowly into Crane's drink soaked mind came recognition. His inflamed reason formed a horrible revenge. The death struggle was desperate and Marcia was left a widow.

The seasons passed and Marcia's esteem and regard for the steadfast friend who wished to give all for her sake deepened and grew until it was all absorbing and of course the ending was happy.

This great picture is in addition to the big vaudeville attraction.

Ray Brandon and Jeanne Russell, two talented and popular dramatic stars, with a supporting cast of clever performers will be the feature at the Lyric theater two nights beginning Wednesday, May 17. The sketching in which Mr. Brandon and Miss Russell will make their appearance is a merry, mirthful comedy skit, entitled, A Star by Mistake, and is best described by the critics as a novelty, comedy, singing, dramatic farce. It is a rioting of mirth and confusion of incident, strung together in pleasing continuity, with an ending that caps the climax for merriment. Into the action of the play some of the most popular and latest song hits are cleverly interpolated by Miss Suzanne Steadman a talented and sweet voiced lyric soprano, and Florence Merritt, the smartest chap in town.

ACTUAL TILE LAYING WILL BEGIN TODAY

Actual tile laying will begin this morning on the land of the Logan Land and Drainage Company north of College ward, just south of the College Spur. For the past week tile has been laid out along the lines of drainage and machinery has been unloaded and set up for trenching. Last evening saw about the last of the preparatory work concluded and this morning ought to see actual trenching and tile laying.

Neil Casey, representing the J. B. Casey Contracting Company, of Crawfordsville, Indiana, is in charge of the work. He has a small force of men on the job at present but will likely put quite a number more at work as soon as some of the open work for teams begins. Operators are coming from Indiana for the machine work.

The tile will be laid at an average depth of about five feet over the entire area to be drained. The main lines will be some deeper to conform to the required grade. The tile will be from five to fifteen inches in diameter, according to the country drained. The Corinne Concrete Tile Company of Brigham City, is furnishing the tile, over fifty miles of which will be used. Mr. Casey, who is also interested in a tile factory in Indiana, states that this material is the best he has seen and certainly ought to prove very successful in this soil.

Mr. Casey is using a Sargent ditcher, made by the Sargent Manufacturing Company of Fort Dodge, Iowa, a ladder type machine that cuts a trench to perfect grade at required width. H. W. Sargent is here to put the machine in operation and to run it for a week or so until everything is seen to be perfectly satisfactory.

Both Mr. Sargent and Mr. Casey are greatly impressed with Cache Valley. While the gentlemen were spending Sunday here, they thought it would be a nice walk to go up to the mountains, and accordingly set out. When the canyon was reached they thought it would be put a short climb to the top of the mountain to the north, and accordingly set out without more equipment than their victrola shoes. They reached the top all right and made the return in due time, or over due time; but not without considerable loss of shoe leather and energy, such as frequently happens with the plains people who come to these valleys. But both were overjoyed with the beauty of the valley, Mr. Sargent declaring it to be the finest he has seen in all the west. The view from the mountain top was all that was needed to make the gentlemen enthusiastic boosters for Cache.

H. S. Kleinschmidt, engineer in charge of the Logan Land and Drainage Company's work, is also at the project laying out further work in the way of ditching and improving the irrigation system.

JOHN THORPE ANSWERS TO DEATH'S CALL

John Thorpe, one of Logan's old veterans and highly respected citizens, a plasterer by trade, died at his home in the Sixth ward yesterday morning following an illness of several weeks.

The deceased was nearly 84 years of age. He was born in Middletown, Lancashire, England, November 8, 1832. He joined the Mormon church in his native land in the year 1850 and became an active worker in the Manchester branch of the church, where he was a member of the choir and brass band.

He emigrated into America in 1855 and spent the early years of his coming to this country in locating immigrants into new settlements and he passed through many of the trials and hardships incident to pioneer life. He arrived in Salt Lake City in 1861, moving to Wellsville in October of that year where he lived until 1881. From Wellsville Mr. Thorpe moved to Logan and became an active member of the Logan Sixth ward, where he has resided ever since.

He has been a faithful worker for his church and was a good father to his large family of children, eleven of whom survive him. He was the husband of three wives, one of whom survive him.

Funeral services will be held in the Logan Sixth ward on Thursday at one o'clock.

FRIDAY PROVED IDEAL DAY FOR FIELD DAY

The day was definitely planned and carried out by Kappa Nu. The meeting place was Jessop's Grove, south of Millville, and at three o'clock the pre-arranged lunch hour, practically every student in school was at the little cove on the banks of the river. The place was sheltered, dry free from disturbing insect or other animal, roomy for games, shady and sunny, as needed and easily accessible to the mountains for hiking.

From eight o'clock, breakfast time at camp, breakfast consisting of ham, eggs, bread and butter all well ashed and smoked to suit, through the return of the riders, tired, hungry, jolly and excited, at the fresh arrival of recruits, as each car came in, at the return of the hikers tired but elated from bally and the show, all through the day in fact the rendezvous offered cheer the climax of which came as, 'All aboard for lunch' was executed. The lunch delicious and plentiful was served quickly in cafeteria style.

The crowd, those not too tired, stopped on the way to the car and danced a merry hour at the Millville dance hall.

Music at the Grove and for the dancing was furnished by the B. Y. C. band. An after dinner program was given by the glee club.

The B. Y. C. baseball team will play the fast Wellsville team here on Dollar Day. The collegians defeated the farmers from Wellsville last Saturday by the score of 4 to 1. Dewey the famous south paw of the B. Y. C. fanned twenty-three men. Cox was the catcher for Dewey and he did excellent work. The record of Dewey in fanning twenty-three men has probably never been equalled in this country.

The county commissioners were kept mighty busy yesterday by persons who wanted their taxes adjusted. All the offices in the court house were kept jumping sideways by persons wanting to know the whys and wherefores. The officers were able to give satisfactory answers in some cases and in some they were not. Some persons went home disgruntled from the treatment, others were well satisfied with the explanations given.

Vaudeville At The Lyric Wednesday And Thursday

A splendid feature vaudeville is scheduled for the Lyric theater on Wednesday and Thursday nights, May 17 and 18 when The Sullivan and Considine big vaudeville road show, known as The Hippodrome Vaudeville will be here direct from one of the big eastern circuits.

The show consists of four acts, all winners, but the feature is the novelty, comedy singing and dramatic skit, A Star by Mistake, in which Ray Brandon Jeanne Russell and company, have scored one of the biggest hits in Vaudeville.

The playlet is rapid fire comedy from start to finish and into the action of the piece some of the latest New York song hits are interpolated by Miss Suzanne Steadman one of the most charming and talented prima donnas in vaudeville.

The other acts on the bill include Those Rag Time Boys, novelty instrumentalists, singers and dancers; Those Blue Ribbon Girls, and The Act Hippodrome billed as The Great Surprise quite a novelty and a headliner in itself.

PROMINENT FINANCIER LIKES LOGAN

Thomas Oldham of Manchester, England who has been visiting here for the past few days, says there has been more real community development in Logan in the past two years than in any previous ten years. Mr. Oldham is in a position to note the growth as he has been coming here once a year for the past twenty-five years, having heavy financial interests here. He was at one time heavily interested in the First National Bank and when he sold his interests there, he assisted in the organization of the Cache Valley Bank of which company he still is a heavy stockholder.

The distinguished visitor calls attention to the fact that the interurban is sure to be a big stimulus to the merchandising business in Logan and that the merchants should not overlook the opportunities in a business way which this railway service offers.

Speaking of England, he says there has been a complete reversal of affairs since the war broke out. The women are taking the posts of men, they are acting as conductors on railroads, reporters and are proving to be very efficient in their labors. The cost of living has advanced and with it the cost of wages have advanced materially.

Mr. Oldham noted that on his first visit there were no paved side walks. He observes with interest the improvements at the Tabernacle and Temple, and other church buildings. He is well pleased with the popularity of the Cache Valley bank under so conservative management.

The stay here will be indefinite, that is to say, Mr. Oldham is not sure just how long he will stay with us.

Parties from the Fifth ward asked the interurban committee of the Commercial Club to take up the matter with the O. L. & I. railway officials relative to taking up the street car track from Ninth North to the main line. Mr. H. G. Hayball, the chairman of the committee interviewed Mr. Browning of Ogden, and he advised there was a mistake on the part of the foreman and the car line would be left in tack to Ninth North and the people would have their usual service.

E. Ralph Gibbs, farmer at Arimo, is in Logan on a brief visit with his family.

S. W. Allen of Cove, was in Logan yesterday on business with the county commissioners.
